Richie Kohler

HMHS Britannic and Worldwide Dive Expeditions

Richie Kohler is one of only four men in the world who have been to RMS Titanic and physically dove inside her equally tragic sister ship, HMHS Britannic. His diving experiences may have begun in the waters surrounding his Brooklyn NY, roots, but for over thirty years his passion for diving and exploring shipwrecks has taken him to all corners of the globe. His latest book, Mystery of the Last Olympian, takes readers on an intriguing journey from the rise of the magnificent Olympians to her fateful loss in 1916 to learn the answer to the question, "Was Britannic, the tragic sister ship of Titanic, always doomed?"

He has explored and documented well-known shipwrecks such as the Andera Doria, RMS Titanic, and the HMHS Britannic, but it was the identification of the WWII German submarine, U-869, which catapulted his diving career into the world of television and underwater documentary filmmaking. That six-year effort has been the subject of several television documentaries and a best-selling book, Shadow Divers by Robert Kurson. The New York Times bestseller is soon to be a major motion picture by 20th Century Fox. Alongside diving partner John Chatterton, Kohler co-hosted 57 episodes of the History Channel series, Deep Sea Detectives, multiple documentary specials and continues to work on underwater projects for the film and television industry.
