Rare / Hard to find shipwreck books

These books are excellent shipwreck research reference books. Recommended by Gary Gentile and referenced in his "Shipwreck Research" book. Hard to find and out of circulation. I have used them for many shipwreck research projects and they are invaluable for a shipwreck researcher. I would like them to find another good home as my shipwreck research has slowed to a crawl lately.

WKPP videos – VHS – The early WKPP / DIR videos of George and Jarrod diving the big cave systems. Out of circulation for a while. These are awesome older videos that show a ton of the early WKPP work in their hey day. Includes GI3 doing a Rocky type run to begin one of the videos which is hysterical to see!

Most were copied by George himself in the early WKPP days.

Includes the following titles: Doing it Right, DIR I and II, Sally Ward Spring, WKPP, Halycon Rebreather and Extreme Cave diving and Uncharted Waters DVD format (I believe this is a WKPP video as well) - $150 for all of these together in a bundle. UPDATED PRICE

Hydro test instruction video - $20 (I used this for teaching the Scuba Equipment specialist and Scuba equipment repair courses)

EKPP – WKPP European style! ($25 for two DVD set) Cave Diving videos of Europe using dual Halcyon rebreathers and WKPP / DIR techniques.

DOUX DE COLY 2002/2003

In August 2002 and 2003, the European Karst Plain Project (EKPP) team gathered at the Doux de Coly, the longest continuously underwater system now dived in the world. Their objective was to push the exploration of this system as far as possible.

Thanks to a dedicated team representing seven countries of Europe, and the application of the Doing-it-Right (DIR) method, both exploration projects were successful. The total explored length is now 5880m. The last push dive required over 18 hours in the water, including nearly 8 hours of bottom time.

GOURNEYRAS 2002

In February-March 2002, the EKPP met for the exploration of Gourneyras, a cave system located in Hérault, France. Michael Waldbrenner and Reinhard Buchaly laid 565m of line with a bottom time of 150 minutes. The maximum depth was 110 metres.
